Zoology and Natural History Journals from Taylor & Francis

Taylor & Francis is dedicated to the dissemination of scholarly information, utilising skills and expertise honed since we first began publishing learned journals in 1798. Today, we publish more than 1,600 scholarly journals in association with 460 societies and institutions. Our publishing team is truly international. With a network of 20 global offices – including Philadelphia, Oxford, Melbourne, Beijing, New Delhi, Stockholm, Johannesburg and Singapore – we can provide local support around the globe.

Our programme is built on strong foundations: we helped establish many excellent journals in the nineteenth century, including those of the Linnean Society of London and the Zoological Society of London, and published the work of Charles Darwin. In the twentieth century, we played a major role in the internationalisation of research, whilst publishing groundbreaking work across a wide range of disciplines.

Our zoology and natural history journals portfolio continues to be edited by many of the world's leading academics in the field, and we enjoy strong partnerships with a great number of learned societies on whose behalf we publish, including the London Natural History Museum, Royal Society of New Zealand, the Italian Society of Zoology and the Society of Vertebrate Paleontology, to name but a few.

Acta Agriculturae Scandinavica, Section A – Animal Science

Published on behalf of the Nordic Association of Agricultural Scientists (NJF)

Editor-in-Chief: Odd Vangen, Aas, Norway

Volume 62, 2012, 4 issues per year

This journal publishes results of original research in animal science and their applications related to the following topics: animal breeding and genetics, animal physiology and reproduction, nutrition and feeding, animal behaviour and welfare, general animal husbandry and systems of production, including economic and technical aspects, hygiene and quality of animal products.

This journal forms part of a trilogy of titles published on behalf of the Nordic Association of Agricultural Scientists (NJF).

African Journal of Herpetology

Co-published with UNISA Press on behalf of the Herpetological Association of Africa

Editor: John Measey, South African National Biodiversity Institute, South Africa

Volume 61, 2012, 2 issues per year

The African Journal of Herpetology is an interdisciplinary journal that publishes from diverse fields and disciplines (e.g. systematics, genetics, performance, physiology, ecology, behavioural ecology, ethology and morphology) that pertain to African reptiles and amphibians. The journal publishes original research articles, reviews (including mini-reviews) and short communications and aims to serve as an outlet for original research on the biology of African amphibians and reptiles. There are no page charges.

Animal Biotechnology

Editor: Lawrence B. Schook, University of Illinois, USA

Volume 23, 2012, 4 issues per year

Animal Biotechnology covers the identification and manipulation of genes and their products, stressing applications in domesticated animals. The journal publishes full-length articles, short research communications, as well as appropriate reviews. The journal also provides a forum for regulatory or scientific issues related to cell and molecular biology, immunogenetics, transgenic animals and microbiology.

Aquatic Insects

Editor: Dr Arnold H. Staniczek, Staatliches Museum für Naturkunde, Germany

Volume 34, 2012, 4 issues per year

Aquatic Insects is an international journal publishing original research on both the systematics and the ecology of aquatic insects. Since a large number of aquatic insect species are ecological indicators, articles in this entomological journal are also of direct relevance to all students of aquatic ecosystems. The journal publishes original research on systematic and ecology of aquatic insects.

Archives of Animal Nutrition

Editor-in-Chief: Ortwin Simon, Freie Universität Berlin, Germany

Volume 66, 2012, 6 issues per year

Archives of Animal Nutrition covers the biochemical and physiological basis of animal nutrition with emphasis laid on: protein and acid metabolism, energy transformation, mineral metabolism, vitamin metabolism, nutritional effects and performance criteria. Furthermore it deals with recent developments in practical animal feeding, feedstuff theory, mode of action of feed additives, feedstuff preservation and feedstuff processing.

Avian Pathology

Published on behalf of the Houghton Trust and in association with the WVPA

Editor-in-Chief: J. M. Bradbury, University of Liverpool, UK

Volume 41, 2012, 6 issues per year

Avian Pathology will consider original material relevant to the entire field of infectious and non-infectious diseases of poultry and all other birds, including infections that may be of zoonotic/food-borne importance. Subject areas include pathology; diagnosis; detection and characterisation of pathogens; gene sequences; epidemiology; immune responses; vaccines; genetics in relation to disease; and physiological and biochemical changes that are in response to disease.

Bioacoustics

The International Journal of Animal Sound and its Recording

New to
Taylor & Francis
for 2012

Academic Editor: Peter K. McGregor, Cornwall College, UK
Managing Editor: Richard Ranft, The British Library Sound Archive, UK

American Editor: Andrew G. Horn, Dalhousie University, Canada

Volume 21, 2012, 3 issues per year

Bioacoustics is the only international peer-reviewed journal devoted to the study and recording of animal sounds. It publishes reports of original research and review articles, commentaries from major figures in the field, profiles of research groups, relevant conference announcements and abstracts, reviews of equipment, books and recordings, information on wildlife sound archives and lists of recent publications in the field of bioacoustics.

Biodiversity

Official publication of the Tropical Conservancy Organization

Editor-in-Chief: Glennis Lewis, Tropical Conservancy, Canada
Managing Editor: Stephen Aitken, Tropical Conservancy, Canada

Volume 13, 2012, 4 issues per year

The aim of Biodiversity is to raise an appreciation and deeper understanding of species, ecosystems and the interconnectedness of the living world and thereby avoid the mismanagement, misuse and destruction of biodiversity. Articles are written for a broad readership including scientists, educators, policy makers, conservationists, science writers, naturalists and students.

Biodiversity aims to provide an international forum on all matters concerning the integrity and wellness of ecosystems and the diversity of species.

Bird Study

Published on behalf of The British Trust for Ornithology

Ranked 8th by Impact Factor in Ornithology

Editor: Will Cresswell, University of St Andrews, UK

Volume 59, 2012, 4 issues per year

Bird Study publishes high quality papers relevant to the sphere of interest of the British Trust for Ornithology: broadly defined as field ornithology; especially when related to evidence-based bird conservation. Research is especially welcome on patterns of distribution and abundance, movements, habitat preferences, developing field census methods, ringing and other techniques for marking and tracking birds.

British Poultry Science

Journal of British Poultry Science Ltd.

Editors: P. M. Hocking and M. G. MacLeod, University of Edinburgh, UK

Volume 53, 2012, 6 issues per year

From its first volume in 1960, British Poultry Science has been a leading international journal for poultry scientists and advisers to the poultry industry throughout the world. Most typically they report the results of biological studies with an experimental approach which either make an original contribution to fundamental science or are of obvious application to the industry.

Published on behalf of Dipartimento di Biologia Evoluzionistica 'Leo Pardi', Italy

Editor-in-Chief: F. Dessi-Fulgheri, Florence, Italy

Volume 24, 2012, 4 issues per year

Ethology Ecology & Evolution provides publication of research and review articles on all aspects of animal behaviour, ecology and evolution. Articles should emphasise the significance of the research for understanding the function, ecology, evolution or genetics of behaviour. Contributions are also sought on aspects of ethology, ecology, evolution and genetics relevant to conservation.

Frontiers in Life Science

Formerly HFSP Journal

Ranked 9th by Impact Factor in Multidisciplinary Science

Editor-in-Chief: Ralf Blossey, Centre National de la Recherche Scientifique (CNRS), France

Volume 6, 2012, 4 issues per year

Frontiers in Life Science publishes high quality, innovative research at the frontier of biology with an emphasis on interdisciplinary research at the interface between the life sciences and the more quantitative sciences.

Ichnos

An International Journal for Plant and Animal Traces

Co-Editors: S. George Pemberton, University of Alberta, Canada
and Murray K. Gingras, University of Alberta, Canada

Volume 19, 2012, 4 issues per year

The foremost aim of Ichnos is to promote excellence in ichnologic research. Primary emphases centres upon the ethologic and ecologic significance of tracemaking organisms; organism-substrate interrelationships; and the role of biogenic processes in environmental reconstruction, sediment dynamics, sequence or event stratigraphy, biogeochemistry, and sedimentary diagenesis.

International Journal of Biodiversity Science, Ecosystem Services & Management

Formerly the International Journal of Biodiversity Science & Management

Editor-in-Chief: Rudolf de Groot, Wageningen University, The Netherlands

Volume 8, 2012, 4 issues per year

The International Journal of Biodiversity Science, Ecosystem Services & Management (IJBESM) aims to improve our understanding of the role of biodiversity in providing ecosystem services and the associated management systems needed to maintain biodiversity and use ecosystem services in a sustainable manner.

International Journal of Odonatology

Official organ of the Worldwide Dragonfly Association

Editor: Michael L. May, Rutgers University, USA

Volume 15, 2012, 4 issues per year

International Journal of Odonatology (IJO) is aimed at providing a publication outlet for the growing number of students of Odonata. It addresses subjects such as the ecology, ethology, physiology, genetics, taxonomy, phylogeny and geographic distribution of species. Reviews are by invitation, but authors who plan to write a review on a subject of interest to the journal are encouraged to contact the editor.

Journal of Natural History

Editors: A. Polaszek, The Natural History Museum, London, UK and A. L. Allcock, Martin Ryan Marine Science Institute, National University of Ireland

Volume 46, 2012, 12 archival print issues per year

The Journal of Natural History offers original research and reviews in evolutionary and general biology and the interaction of organisms with their environment. While maintaining a tradition of featuring classical taxonomic work in entomology and zoology and thereby providing a scientific basis for the application of systematics in biological control, agriculture, aquaculture and medical and veterinary zoology, the journal also publishes papers on cladistics, experimental taxonomy, parasitology, ecology and behaviour.

Journal of Biomolecular Structure and Dynamics

New to
Taylor & Francis
for 2012

Editor-in-Chief: Ramaswamy H. Sarma, State University of New York at Albany, USA

Volume 30, 2012, 6 issues per year

Journal of Biomolecular Structure and Dynamics cordially welcomes manuscripts from active investigators in biological structure, dynamics, interactions and expression. Over the quarter of a century of its service to scientists, particularly in the last several years, it has evolved to be the mainstay of publications in high end computational science in atomic structural biology, bioinformatics, virtual drug design, genomics and biological networks- mainly an interdisciplinary computational journal in life sciences.

Journal of the Royal Society of New Zealand

A Publication of the Royal Society of New Zealand

Senior Editor: Charles Daugherty, Victoria University of Wellington, New Zealand

Volume 42, 2012, 4 issues per year

The Royal Society of New Zealand is well respected for its important role in fostering debate and research across the applied, biological, earth, engineering, information, medical, mathematical, physical, social, and technological sciences. The Journal of the Royal Society of New Zealand plays an important role in disseminating information to researchers in universities, research institutes, and other centres around the world.

Ostrich

Journal of African Ornithology

Co-published with NISC in association with the BirdLife South Africa

Scientific Editor: Dr Lizanne Roxburgh, Percy FitzPatrick Institute of African Ornithology, University of Cape Town, South Africa

Volume 83, 2012, 3 issues per year

Ostrich: Journal of African Ornithology is the leading ornithological journal in Africa and publishes peer-reviewed scientific papers and short communications (<2,000 words) on all aspects of ornithology conducted in Africa and its associated islands and marine habitats. Contributions reporting on avian behaviour, breeding, conservation, demography, ecology, migration, morphology and systematics are welcome.

Ringing & Migration

Published for The British Trust for Ornithology

Editor: Chris Redfern, Newcastle University, UK

Volume 27, 2012, 2 issues per year

Ringing & Migration is the journal of the British Trust for Ornithology Ringing Scheme. Published since 1975, the journal incorporates the Trust's annual report on bird ringing in Britain & Ireland. The journal welcomes papers on all aspects of bird ringing and migration studies but gives lowest priority to papers involved with methodology alone. Its main function is to encourage ringers to analyse and write up the results of their work.

Studies on Neotropical Fauna and Environment

Editors-in-Chief: Anne Zillikens, Universität Tübingen, Germany and Wolf Engels, Universität Tübingen, Germany

Volume 47, 2012, 3 issues per year

The aims and scope of Studies on Neotropical Fauna and Environment are, besides taxonomic and zoogeographic surveys, analyses of animal communities and their relationship with biotic and abiotic environmental conditions. This includes the fauna of both terrestrial and freshwater ecosystems in the Neotropics.

Systematics and Biodiversity

Published on behalf of the Natural History Museum, London

Editor-in-Chief: Elliot Shubert, The Natural History Museum, London, UK

Volume 10, 2012, 4 issues per year

Systematics and Biodiversity is devoted to whole-organism biology. Systematics and Biodiversity documents the diversity of organisms in all natural phyla, through taxonomic papers, while also addressing topical issues relating to biological collections, and the principles of systematics. It particularly emphasises the importance and multi-disciplinary significance of systematics, with contributions which address the implications of other fields for systematics or which advance our understanding of other fields through taxonomic knowledge.

Transactions of the Royal Society of South Africa

Co-published with UNISA Press on behalf of the Royal Society of South Africa

Editor: D. M. Avery, FFRSaf, South Africa

Volume 67, 2012, 3 issues per year

Transactions of the Royal Society of South Africa reflects a rich tome of original scientific research in and beyond South Africa. The journal's strength lies in its multi- and interdisciplinary orientation, with all scientific disciplines being well represented, including astronomy, archaeology, botany, ethnology, climatology, mineralogy and petrology, physics and engineering, geology, palaeontology, irrigation, mathematics, oceanography, physiology and zoology.

Veterinary Quarterly

Editor-in-Chief: J.H. van der Kolk, The Netherlands

Volume 32, 2012, 4 issues per year,

Veterinary Quarterly is an international journal publishing review articles and research in the field of animal diseases (including the pathophysiology of a specific disease). Single case reports or short communications describing a newly recognised disease or important variation of a well-recognised disease are welcome.
