

Journal of Iberian and Latin American Research

Call for Papers

The Journal of Iberian and Latin American Research (JILAR) is an international journal dedicated to publishing original research on the histories, political economies, sociologies, literatures, and cultures of Latin America and the Iberian Peninsula. JILAR has a commitment to publishing interdisciplinary research and encourages and makes room for debates on current research concerns. The journal welcomes individual or multiple-authored articles in English, Spanish, and Portuguese. It publishes review essays, book and film reviews, and also invites proposals from prospective editors for special thematic issues. All article submissions undergo a rigorous peer review process.

Submissions

Article length must be between 6,000 and 8,000 words including endnotes. In order to facilitate blind peer review, please do not include your name in headers, footers, or the title page. The article must have endnotes, not footnotes, and these should not be extensive. Words not in the language in which the article is written should be italicized, unless they are enclosed in quotation marks. For a complete style guide please visit
