Special Issue: New Orleans and the Design Moment Volume 14, Issue 3, 2009

“What Does Urban Design Have To Do with a Disaster Like Hurricane Katrina?”

As participants in the recovery process in New Orleans, we have wrestled with the above question in our applied planning and design research over the past four years. As the Editors of this special issue, our goal is to encourage scholarly reflection about our professional, pedagogical, political, and personal responses to the disaster and what lessons we can glean from this experience for urban design. Each of the articles presented in this special issue begins to make sense of the design moment as it has unfolded in New Orleans.”

Guest Editors: Jacob Wagner and Michael Frisch,
Both at the University of Missouri-Kansas City, USA
